Track progress on the mat

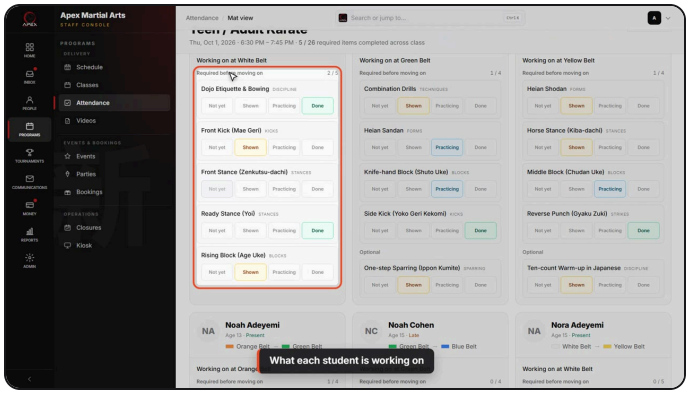

Mark techniques from Mat view during class, check one student's progress, and see who is ready to test.

12 steps

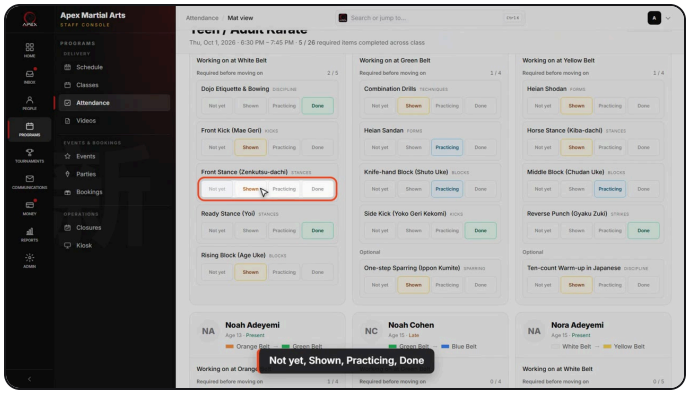

1 Save attendance, then click Mat view

Take attendance, then click Save attendance at the bottom of the roster. Then click Mat view at the top. It's built for a tablet on the mat.

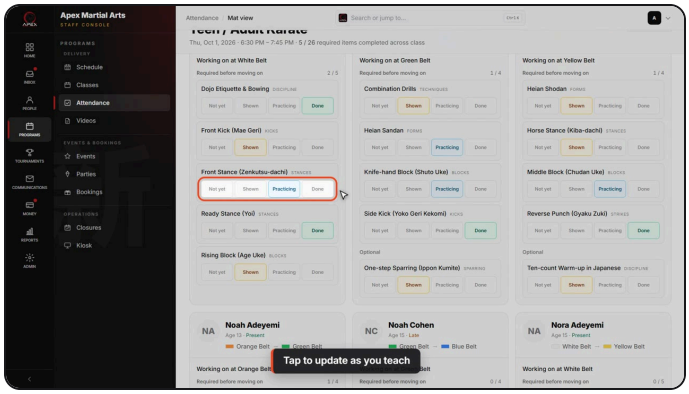

2 What each student is working on

Every student marked present or late gets a card with their belt and what they're working on at that belt. Required items come first: they're finished before moving on.

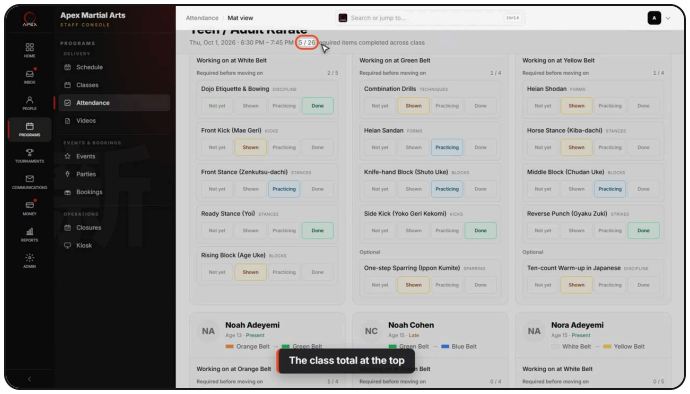

3 Not yet, Shown, Practicing, Done

Each item has four buttons: Not yet, Shown, Practicing, and Done.

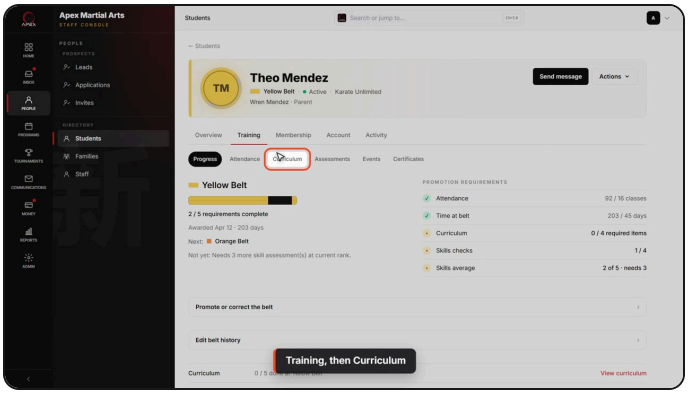

4 Tap to update as you teach

Showed something new today? Tap Shown. While the student is still working on it, tap Practicing. When they've got it, tap Done. It saves the moment you tap.

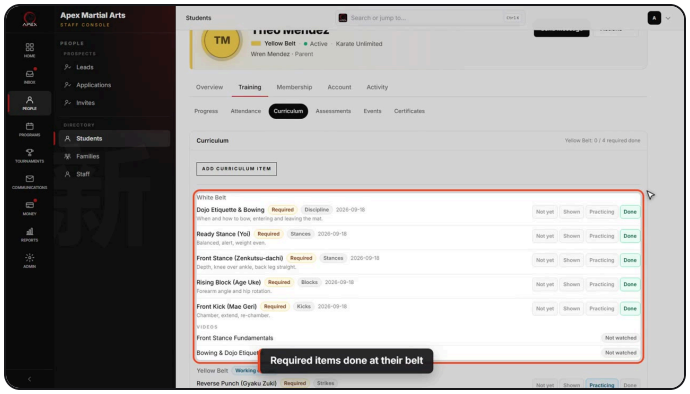

5 The class total at the top

The count at the top shows how many required items the whole class has completed, so you can see where to focus.

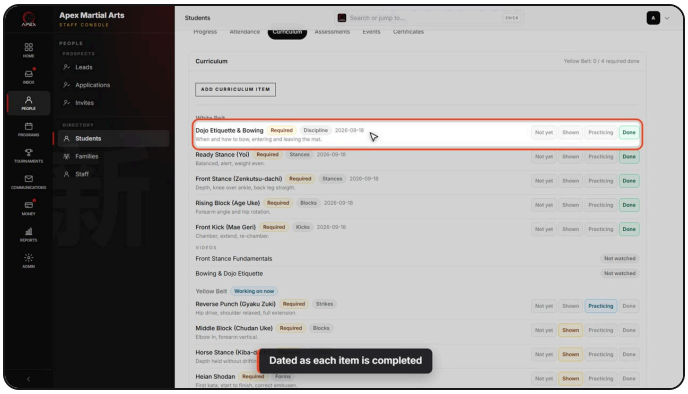

6 Training, then Curriculum

Each student's page tracks curriculum too. Open the student, click Training, then Curriculum.

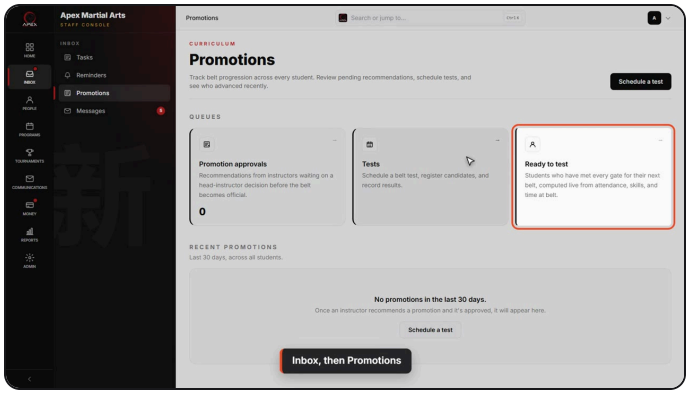

7 Required items done at their belt

At the top is their belt, and how many of its required items are done. Below, their items are listed belt by belt.

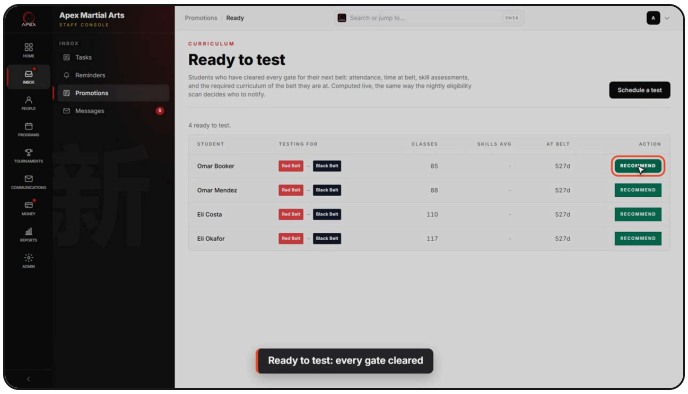

8 Dated as each item is completed

Completed items show the date they were finished, which is handy when a parent asks how their child is doing.

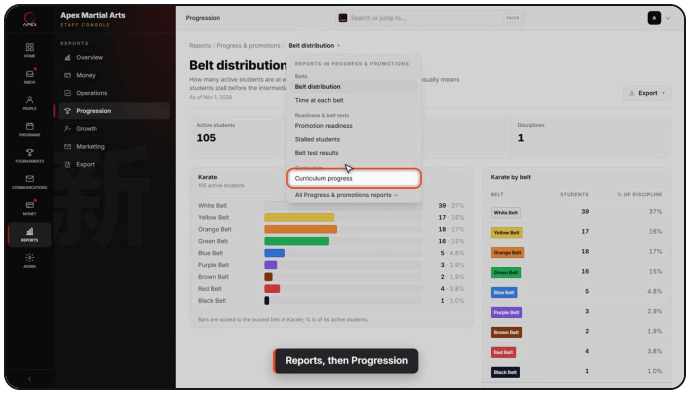

9 Inbox, then Promotions

To see who's ready for their next belt, click Inbox in the sidebar. Then click Promotions, just below it. Open the Ready to test card.

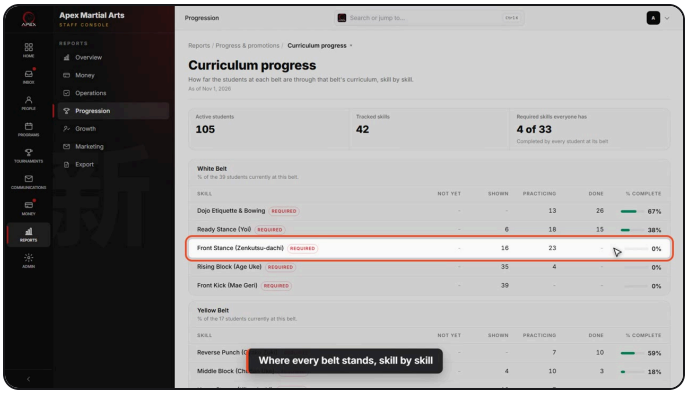

10 Ready to test: every gate cleared

It lists students who've cleared every gate for their next belt: classes, time at their belt, skill ratings, and required curriculum. Recommend sends them for approval.

11 Reports, then Progression

For the whole school, click Reports in the sidebar, then Progression in the menu beside it. Open the report menu at the top of the page and choose Curriculum progress.

12 Where every belt stands, skill by skill

It shows every skill at each belt and how far your students are through it, so you can spot techniques that need more class time.
